

A fruitfull Dialogue touching the doctrine of Gods providence, and mans freewill, so briefly and playnely sett forth, as the verye simplest may easlye vnderstand it, and be thereby enabled to encounter the aduersary. Whereunto is annexed a right Christian Epistle made by

A. G.

Esay. 65.1.

¶ I made my selfe manifest to them that asked not, I was founde of them that sought me not: I sayd behold me, behold me, vnto a Nation that called not vpon my name.

2. Cor. 4.3.

¶ But if our Gospell be hidden, it is hidden to them that perishe.

Scene and allowed  B.M.

AT LONDON
Printed by Iohn Daye dwelling ouer Aldersgate.